Date Approved:	21 September 2023
Date Commenced:	4 October 2023

1.0 Purpose

This procedure provides the provisions available to staff at EIT to resolve any grievance as quickly as possible. It defines the steps to take for managing staff grievances to facilitate a prompt, fair and effective resolution.

2.0 Scope

This procedure applies to all members of staff during their period of employment with EIT. Grievances must be lodged as soon as possible after the grievance occurs, and within any timeframes set down by relevant legislation.

This procedure and associated policy cannot be used to make a complaint about provisions in an Enterprise Agreement or award; workers compensation matters; investigations by external authorities; and application of EIT's policies, unless the policy or procedure has not been followed and the staff member has been unduly disadvantaged as a result.

3.0 Overview

Staff may seek information and advice from the Human Resources Manager at any time. Staff will need to continue to work during a staff grievance procedure and work in accordance with directions from their supervisor or another nominated supervisor if the grievance is with the supervisor.

The supervisor and Human Resources Manager will determine if the complainant may need referral to other professionals such as counsellors and medical practitioners.

4.0 Implementation

There are two key types of resolution: informal and formal. Within these types of resolution are a number of stages, which will be initiated depending on the stage at which a resolution is agreed.

The following types of resolution and stages should be followed to resolve the grievance, noting that where informal resolution is not possible, then the stages of formal resolution will need to be initiated.

4.1 Informal Resolution

The complainant may seek to resolve the issue with the respondent directly with the aim of resolving the matter as soon as possible and reaching an acceptable outcome that minimises any degradation to ongoing harmonious working relationships.

However, the complainant or respondent is not compelled to use the informal process. In such cases, they have the option of proceeding immediately to a formal process.

The informal process is preferred, where appropriate, to:

- Resolve cases where behaviour may have been unintentional to prevent 'labelling'.
- Avoid lengthy formal proceedings.
- Use a consultative, teaching approach to raise awareness and prevent further issues.

The stages of the informal process are:

1. Approach the Respondent

- a. Ask or tell the person to stop the behaviour;
- b. Seek advice from the Human Resources Manager on how to approach the matter.

2. Approach the Respondent's Supervisor or Manager

- a. Make an informal grievance to the respondent's manager or other senior staff member;
- b. The respondent has five (5) working days to provide a response to the manager;
- c. The complainant considers the response and either considers it satisfactory or proceeds to informal conciliation.

3. Informal Conciliation

- a. Meeting with the claimant and respondent in an attempt to achieve agreed outcomes. The aim is to provide an opportunity to air the grievance and permit a response to the allegations, via a facilitated discussion;
- b. If the complainant or the respondent is not satisfied with the outcome, they may lodge a request to the Human Resources Manager to proceed to the formal resolution process.

Complainants and respondents are encouraged to seek the support of another party to assist them during the process.

The timeframe for resolving the grievance through the informal resolution process should be timely and not exceed fifteen (15) working days, unless there are circumstances that warrant further time, such as persons being unavailable due to leave and other such circumstances. Further time may be negotiated between all parties, up to twenty (20) working days, after which the complaint should be withdrawn, or the formal resolution process invoked.

4.2 Formal Resolution

The complainant is encouraged to seek advice from the Human Resources Manager regarding the process for formal resolution of the grievance.

Complainants and respondents are encouraged to seek the support of another party to assist them during the process. All parties are notified that the grievance is confidential and that they are protected from victimisation.

If the grievance has already undergone an informal resolution process, then the Human Resources Manager may decide that the formal resolution process will proceed immediately to the investigation stage, after lodgement of the relevant form.

The stages of the formal resolution process are:

1. Conciliation – aims to reach a resolution that is agreed by both parties via discussion and not via the submission of evidence.
 - a. Lodgement of a/the form with the Human Resources Manager by the complainant.
 - b. The Human Resources Manager forwards the grievance to the respondent and asks them to respond within 5 working days regarding commencing a conciliation process.
 - c. Discussions are initiated and a facilitator appointed. All parties are advised that their statements will be confidential and without prejudice, if they agree to proceed. Meetings with the claimant and respondent commence within 5 working days, either individually or together, in an attempt to achieve agreed outcomes. The aim of a group meeting is to provide an opportunity to air the grievance and permit a response to the allegations, via a facilitated discussion.
 - d. Proposed resolution
 - If a resolution is agreed, then both parties will sign a statement advising that the grievance has been resolved. The resolution may include further actions such as counselling; relevant training; or other agreed actions. Parties should be advised that victimisation or any means or reprisal is unacceptable and could invoke disciplinary action.
 - Monitoring of outcomes agreed should be actioned by the Human Resources Manager, complainant's supervisor and/or respondent's supervisor to ensure compliance with any agreed actions.

If the complainant or the respondent is not satisfied with the outcome, they may lodge a request to the Human Resources Manager to proceed to the investigation stage.
2. Investigation – aims to determine findings of fact to result in recommended actions to resolve the grievance.
 - a. Lodgement of written reasons of outstanding concerns and documentation regarding facts
 - b. Human Resources Manager to appoint investigators within 5 days of receipt of notice, who have no prior knowledge of grievance
 - c. Investigators to commence interviews with complainant within 5 days of appointment, and prepare written record of interview to send to respondent, within 5 days of interview.

- d. Investigators to interview respondent within 48 hours of receipt of written grievance, to obtain their response.
- e. Further interviews to proceed, as required over a 15 working day period, with the complainant, respondent and other witnesses.
- f. Preparation of report by the investigators, within 5 working days after the last interview, including recommendations for the Governance Board to consider.
- g. A decision will be made by the Governance Board within 5 working days of receipt of the report, together with a written report of the decision sent to the complainant and respondent. The decision may be either to uphold the grievance or to dismiss the grievance if it cannot be substantiated. Further disciplinary action may be taken against the complainant if the grievance is found to be vexatious or against the respondent if the grievance is upheld.
- h. The Human Resources Manager will ensure that the recommendations of the investigation are implemented and that all materials related to the grievance are held on a confidential staff file.

4.3 Review by External Authority

If the parties are not satisfied with the outcome decided by the Governance Board, they may be able to seek a review by the Fair Work Ombudsman.

4.4 Record-keeping

All parties involved in a grievance procedure should keep confidential notes of meetings and discussions with other parties. These notes should be placed on the files of relevant staff members as relevant. The parties involved should confirm in writing that the author has truthfully and accurately recorded the proceedings. All decisions and actions taken should be provided in writing to the respondent and the complainant.

EIT will maintain a register of all formal grievances.
